In your own words, why is ANZAC day important?

Tip: use some of the words above to help you describe ANZAC day.

ANZAC is important because we have to wake up early in the morning to go to the dawn service to respect the soldiers who have passed on to save our country they died for us so we can end the war & don't have a fight with other countries we are all want to have peace we all don't want to have another fight & having more people die just to save our lives on the line we have to respect them because they died for us. The dawn service is where someone talks & we stay outside until daylight because i think thats how long they fought with the other countries cause their always prepared if they come & attacked where there staying some people stay up so some of them can have a rest so the people can wake the soldiers up so they can fight for our country. It's so important to respect the army & the soldiers who have past on remember they died so we can live if we were in the war we would do the same thing to protect New Zealand & the elders who are sick we don't want them to die so we have to say thank you to them if you want you can the the poppy & put it to the family member who was in the war. We have to respect them the died for our lives thank you the soldiers who are up in heaven for saving our lives we thank you for dying for us & our countries thank you so much we appreciate it thank you bless you & where your at now we hope we can see you up there with god having the time of your lifes up there thank you so much.
